THE COURT OF APPEALS BILL. Lawyers Who Oppose Still Continuing the Effort Against It.

WHY THEY PREFER THE BILL PROVIDING POR ADDITIONAL JUSTICES OF THE DISTRICT SU-PREME COURT-THE BAB ASSOCIATION AND ITS

that is the urgent need of some measure of relief, some addition to the working force of the District judiciary to enable the courts to dispose of the great number of accumulated cases and to keep up with the current business. The so-called court of appeals bill providing for a eparate court of appeals of three justices was separate court of appeals of three justices was favorably reported to the House by its judiciary committee in the last Congress, and again in this Congress it has been returned to the House from committee with a favorable report. To both Congresses it was presented by a committee representing the Bar Association of the District as a measure which had received the approval of that association. A formidable opposition to the bilk nowever, has been developed among seembers of the bar, who have advocated instead of this measure a bill providing for three additional associate justices of the Supreme Court of the District. It has even been asserted by this opposition that the court of ap-Court of the District. It has even been asserted by this opposition that the court of appeals bill did not represent the views of a majority of the Bar Association. The opposition claim also that the larger portion of the bar are with them, and they assert as a proof of it that when it was ascertained that the judiciary committee had determined upon the court of appeals bill a petition was prepared opposing the bill, and it was signed by over 200 members of the bar. An effort will be made to have the matter again brought before the Bar Association, when the lawyers who expose the court tion, when the lawyers who oppose the court of appeals bill hope to muster votes enough to reverse the action by which the association gave its approval to that measure. The further agitation of the matter is deprecated by many who fear lest the result may be an indefinite postponement of the relief so urgently de-manded. WHY THEY OPPOSE THE BILL. A member of the bar who has been active in his opposition to the court of appeals bill said his opposition to the court of appeals bill said to a Star reporter today that he could only account for the action of the judiciary committee on the theory that having officially resolved to report the bill after hearing only one side of the question the members of the committee did not wish to admit that they had made a mistake. "This bill," the lawyer continued, "will necessitate an annual appropriation of not less than $30,000 a year, while the bill we are in favor of and which will give us all the relief we could well ask for, and much more will take his seat in our highest local court a ripened jurist. On the other hand, this new court of appeals will undoubtedly be filled, as nearly every judicial position has been filled in this District, by new men brought from the states with not the slightest knowledge of the the bench to review and often overturn the de-cision of men who have had years of experi-ence in administering these laws. It seems most absurd when one thinks of it. Now our most absurd when one thinks of it. Now our plan meets the condition most admirably; for whatever plan is adopted that will be done which has always been done and will always continue to be done to the people of this District. No matter what sort of court is given us it will be filled with men who are strangers to us. But by adopting our plan this will not do us very much harm, indeed it is an advantage, for it extends the field from which to pick out an able man to fill the place. Then, when you have appointed him, we put him in training for our highest court. He goes to the foot. We not him in the Criminal Court, where the laws are the simplest and most easily learned. Next he goes into the Circuit Court, then in the Equity Court, or vice versa; so that by the time he has reached the round of the ladder which will take him with the next step into the General Term, where he will sit to review the decisions of the younger and less experienced judges who have been appointed since he was, he will be qualified to do it. This is the system which has for years been advocated by the best lawyers of the country as one which should be applied to our entire federal indication.

The bill prohibits all manner of betting in this county, double the cost of that which we are asking for."

"But what do you propose to do about it," said the reporter. "now that the committee has reported the other bill?"

"Well, we know we are in the right and we propose to win, that's all. The bar, and our side constitutes three-fourths of it, is thoroughly aroused to the importance of this matter, and we have gone to work—rather late, it is true—but we shall win. We shall ask the District committee to help us. We shall give this economical Cougress the alternative of choosing between a measure which we don't want and which will cost from $30,000 to $35,0.0 a year and one which we do want and which will except on horse races at agricultural fairs, which are limited to fifteen days, and provides for a fine of $500 for committing such an offense. It is considered a good bill and its passage is earnestly hoped for.

Neighborhood Legislative Notes. Mr. Coffin has presented in the Maryland enate a petition of Forest Grange protesting against the passage of the bill now pending in the legislature authorizing the county commis sioners of Prince George's county to purchase the Washington and Marlboro' turnpike.

The Mushback bill in Virginia having prohibited betting, book making and pool selling at Jackson City, in Alexandria county, Senator Coffin now follows suit by introducing a bill in his support of the court of appeals bill, when asked by a Star reporter respecting the opposition to the bill, denied that a majority of the bar or of the Bar Association favored the measure proposed in place of the court of appeals bill. The petition in favor of the opposition bill, this member of the bar said, had been signed by many who had been misinformed and made to believe that the court of appeals bill could not be passed, and who therefore were ready to advocate any measure that would secure the needed addition to the courts. The history of the matter before the Bar Association was given briefly by this member of the bar to True Star reporter, as follows: The association over two years ago gave attentive consideration to this matter and appointed a committee composed of Messers Nathaniel Wilson, J. M. Wilson, S. S. Henkle, Jas. G. Payne, M. F. Morris, Walter Davidge and Enoch Totten to report the best mode for providing the relief needed. Coffin now follows suit by introducing a bill in the Maryland senate to prevent gaming and betting on races in Prince George's county except at agricultural fairs, which are limited to fifteen days. The provisions of the bill are very strict, and it prohibits betting on base ball games, cocking mains and elections, as well as on horse racing. The fine is $500, half to the informer and six months in jail.

The bill to empower the county commissioners of Prince George's county to issue bonds to ers of Prince George's county to issue bonds to the amount of $80,000 to put the county on a cash basis has been read a second time in the

The bill to amend the public local laws of Prince George's county has been reported to the house. Senator Coffin has introduced a bill approprinting $1.000 per annum for two years to be used in the erection of an academy at Laurel. A similar bill was passed at the last session, but the governor failed to sign it. The acad-emy is to belong to the public school system of relief needed.

A majority report was made signed by five of the seven members of the committee in avoid of the plan which was subsequently embodied in the court of appeals bill. The two dissentients, Messra. Totten and Davidge, made a minority report favoring the appointment of two additional justices of the Supreme Court of the District. The association, by a fair majority, adopted the report made by the majority of the committee and thereupon appointed a committee of twelve to draw up a bill carrying out the recommendations of that report. A subsequent meeting, at which the committee to draw up the bill reported, was not so well attended. Many members interested in the measure, but believing the principle at stake had siready been settled by a decisive vote of the association and that all that remained was the agreement upon details in which they had little interest, remained away. At this meeting a motion to entirely reconsider the action of the association was made, and there was a tie vote, the casting vote of the president being required to decide the question, which it did by defeating the motion to reconsider. This tie vote, obtained under such circumstances, had been made use of to support the claim that the majority of the association did not want the court of appeals bill. At the last annual meeting of the association the former action in support of the court of appeals bill had been reaffirmed by the action of the association is continuing in existence various committees, including the one in charge of the bill. The member of the bar with whom the reporter talked criticised quite strongly methods which, it was claimed, have been employed in the effort to defeat the bill, and asserted that the opposition of many of those most active in the agitation against the proposed court of appeals could be attributed to some strong personal reason for desiring the continuance of the existing judicial system. The cost of the proposed court of appeals, the salaries of the three judges, of the clerk and his assistant, of a crier and a messenger, the lawyer continued, would not be $25,000 a year.

WHY THEY PAVOR THE BILL "The reason why we favor the court of appeals bill," said the lawyer, "rather than that proposing only the appointment of additional justices is that the existing system which the opposition bill proposes to perpetuate is a ricious one. It is a system that has been virtually repudiated in every jurisdiction where it has been tried except here. The evils resulting has been tried except here. The evils resulting from having trial judges set in a court to hear appeals have long been felt as serious obstacles in the proper administration of justice. Now, when it is proposed to provide for an increase in the number of judges the opportunity is offered for remedying the defect in the system by making the appellate court a stable instead of a shifting tribunal and removing the difficulties growing out of the relations between the trial justices and those who may chance to be sitting in the appellate court under the existing system.

"Our experience makes it a fair presump-court under the existing system.

"Our experience makes it a fair presumption," said the lawyer, "that a majority of the justices will be chosen from the District bar. Four out of the six justices now composing the Supreme Court of the District were appointed from the District bar. I count among these four Mr. Justice Hagner, who came from Annapolis, a few miles away, and was familiar with our practice. So I do not attach much weight to the argument against the court of appeals bill based on the assumption that the President will appoint as justices of this court President will appoint as justices of this court men who are strangers. The opposition bill proposes a sort of justicial nursery. Under the system proposed the justices advancing to places in the Court in General Term, according o seniority of commission, justices will not sit n that court until they have reached an age when they ought to retire rather than assume new judicial burdens. I am in favor of the ap-pointment of comparatively young and vigorous men to the court of appeals, men capa-ble of many years of active and useful service."

House, as described by Mr. McMillin, was significant. They were divided against themselves. That party had gone before the people in the last election and had made false and wicked charges against the republicans. The anxiety to see what they intended to do. Their policy was not well defined. Upon locking over the three sporadic bills reported by the committee on ways and means he had endeavored to ascertain the scope of each and to see exactly what the party proposed to do.

The entire scheme of tariff reform proposed by the 140 democratic majority of this House in redemption of their pledges and to relieve the people from the "oppressions" which, as they say, lurk in every line of the Mckinley bill, consisted, said he, of the three bills reported to the House. As to the redemption of the remainder of the democratic pledges he (Mr. McMillin) comforted the voters who elected this democratic House eighteen months ago under the promise of sweeping tariff reform would promptly follow its assembling with another pledge that if they will only wait and re-elect a democratic House and elect a democratic President their democratic tariff reform shall blossom as the rose.

This was the method they had adopted of cheating the people, but the latter were not fools and would not be deceived. The bills as reported were absurd, unjust and unwise in every particular. They dared not go to the people upon the tariff issue. They dogged the question. Legislation so unjust, so devoid of principle as that proposed, would not meet with the approval of the people, who were no fools and who could distinguish between honesty and trickery.

Mr. Dingley defended the McKinley act elocated and the description and at length, and argued that the Mr. Dingley defended the McKinley act elo-quently and at length, and argued that the three bills proposed by the democratic majority of the ways and means committee could result in nothing but injury to the farmer. In conclusion he said: Every evil prediction relating to the McKinley tariff has been dis-

The policy which has done so much to make this country the largest agricultural, the largest manufacturing, the largest mining and the most prosperous country on the face of the earth is here to stay. Pending further remarks by Mr. Dingley the committee rose and the House adjourned.

From these records I prefer to be judged, and I shall not make public any of the hundreds of flattering documents which are recommendatory of my conduct during the war. I propose to be vindicated. Of course my condition was what is known to all asthmatics. I siways had more or less wheering and shortness of breath. I would wake up at night feeling as if I would suffocate, the shortness of breath would be terrible, the air seamed stifting and would frequently have to open the windows, oftentimes would sit up all night trying to get relief, my nose was stuffed up, which also impeded my breathing.

I have tried many physicians without benefit, their medicines not having the slightest effect on me.

Last December I commenced treatment with Dr. Jordan, and at the time had a very severe stack. His medicines had the desired effect almost at once, and since taking treatment for a few days I have been entirely free from any sanoying symptoms, have been able to sleep well and attend to my business regularly. AN OPEN SECRET.

"It is no secret at all." The speaker was a lady noted for the wonderf preservation of her health and beauty. She had been asked in a circle of friends how she main-"A perfect complexion and good health in women," she said, "depends upon two thingsstrong nerves and a good stomach. Most women are excessively nervous, weak and languid, and as a result their complexions are sallow and their faces pinched, drawn and wrinkled. Few women have perfect digestion. Now, obviously, if women wish sound health and good complexions they must get their nerves strong and their diges-tion good. The best thing in the world to do this is Dr. Greene's Nervura, for it is a wonderful strengthener of weak nerves and gives a vigorous appetite and perfect digestion." Spring Tonic and Invigorator, and everybody needs a spring medicine. Besides, it is a vegetable remedy, pure and harmless.
